COURIER CAMPAIGN OPEN, NOMINATIONS SHOULD BE ENTERED WITHOUT DELAY

Every Individual Should at Least Investigate the Wonderful Opportunities Which Are Being Offered to Make Money — Now Is the Time to Start

Although it is hard to realize the magnitude of this special opportunity which the Courier is offering home people, and the ease with which one can acquire one of the generous gold prizes, nevertheless, one has but to investigate the merits of this generous proposition to readily realize it is the one big opportunity of a life time.

You owe it to yourself at least to investigate and at the earliest possible moment. The campaign manager will be glad to explain the entire plan in detail to you, then you be the judge as to whether or not you wish to carry on.

Now, as this campaign is just starting, is the time to get under way with your work. There are hundreds of subscriptions to be written in the next few weeks, which will aid in placing a worker in a prominent position.

There are always scores of people who express the wish that they would like to own "one of those prizes," but very few seemingly act on that desire. It is not the wishers but the doers, who will win these handsome prizes within the next few weeks. All that the Courier can do is to give away the prizes and invite our readers to apply this campaign offer personally.

If You Won?

Just place yourself in the position of a possible winner of one of the ten gold prizes or your share of the hundreds of dollars in cash that are given away for a few short weeks of spare time and effort and act upon the first impulse of participating in this great distribution. Experience is absolutely unnecessary, the only qualification being the spirit of wanting to do something big for yourself.

It is really surprising how simple your part of the campaign will be. You will find many people now taking the Courier and others who are not taking it, who will be glad of an opportunity to become members of the great family of readers of this paper or to renew in your favor to give your vote value on their subscriptions. The least that anyone can do, and each one owes it to him or herself to do it, is to find out all about this startling offer. Just the mailing of the nomination on the information coupon will bring this information. The time to do it is now, today, which simple act will start you out this year in a manner far beyond your most hopeful dreams.

Three Districts

There are three districts in the campaign, three sets of prizes with a big, generous gold prize positively guaranteed each district, then the first choice of gold prizes which may go in either of the districts. A complete set of cash prizes must go to each district. You compete only with candidate living in your district, but you are free to secure subscriptions anywhere.

Working in your spare time you can make at the very least one dollar of every four dollars you collect on subscriptions, new and renewal. Or you can earn one of the big gold prizes.

Campaign Just Started

It is good business to know more about this "Everybody Wins Something" campaign which provides more than $10,000 in cash. The campaign is just starting. Today you can get in, not on the ground floor but in the sub-basement. The future is all there is to it. There isn't any past. Here is an opportunity where the whole family can join and by combining their spare hours enhance the family income up to about $700 a month during the campaign. Entries are now being accepted. Information is available to you without obligation on your part. You are invited to participate in this $10,000 Gold Gift List.

Campaign headquarters at 313 Mill street, are open evenings. You can call tonight if more convenient for you. Or, if you will telephone or write

STATE NEWS OF GENERAL INTEREST

COLUMBIA, Pa., Mar. 30.—(INS)—Construction on a new bridge on the Lincoln Highway at Mountville, near here, has been resumed after a prolonged period of unfavorable weather. Built to replace a span condemned by the state highway department, the new bridge is expected to be ready for use about May 15.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Mar. 30.—(INS)—Orchardists of Lehigh county are planning organization of a cooperative apple marketing association which, they hope, will eventually become one of the largest of its kind in the United States.

Started by individuals and companies who have begun marketing of apples of a sizable scale in recent years, the movement has spread through the county and apple growers of Bucks, Berks and Northampton counties have been invited to join in the move.

First move contemplated by organizers of the association is erection of a central packing plant easily accessible to all orchards and on a main highway. Bethlehem has been suggested as a likely choice.

Plans of the leaders in the movement include grading of all apples according to Federal Government standards, packing in a standard container and selection of a trade name.

Although apple raising on a large scale has not been long-lived in this region, more orchards are being started yearly and proponents of the cooperative believe that with increased membership and with the territory to be included in the association, it has an opportunity to rival similar nationally-known groups in the Northwest, as well as those of the famed Shenandoah Valley.

HARRISBURG, Mar. 30.—(INS)—Pinchot in which he toured the South Gov. Pinchot's schooner, the Mary Seas, is for sale, it was learned here. Built and equipped at a cost of about $18,000 the schooner has been laid up at Savannah, Ga., since the Pinchot party returned.

Executors of Sellersville Man Come Across Legal Document

LOANED FIRE CO. MONEY

SELLERSVILLE, Mar. 30.—Out of a strange hiding place, through a break in the lining of an old coat once owned by the late Milton H. Schwauger, thirty years street commissioner of this borough, before his demise, several years ago, has come a perfectly valid mortgage for $1000 to create a sudden financial problem for the leaders of Sellersville Fire Department.

Probably the largest measure of the irony of the situation which has set the local firemen scratching for funds, arises from the belief that Schwauger never intended to force the payment of the claim—rather had meant to destroy it and either had meant to put it into execution.

Sellersville Fire Company was the pet hobby of the aged highway department head. He was one of its founders and never missed a fire when his health permitted him to turn out with the apparatus. When Sellersville Council six years ago bought the company a powerful pumper truck he was immensely proud. He was one of the first and one of the most insistent advocates of the building of Sellersville's modern fire station and he lived to see it dedicated and to put in many hours of his leisure time working upon the grounds about the building.

More than that he put $1000 of his life's savings into the building as a loan and took documentary proof thereof as a matter of form, telling confidants he never expected to force the boys to pay. He put the document into one of his old coats and to one of his best friends said he thought he would burn it some day.

The documentary evidence of his love for "the company" slipped down into the lining of the coat and was forgotten and Schwauger died after a brief illness due to exposure while at work on the streets in which he took a pride second only to his pride in years of fire service.

By mere chance executors, it is said, examining the dead man's personal effects, felt something in the lining of a shabby coat and discovered the forgotten document. They have suggested that it should be paid as soon as possible in order that Schwauger's estate may be finally settled and the company is working energetically to raise the money.

Quigley Home, Croydon, Is Much Damaged By Fire

CROYDON, Mar. 30.—The second floor of the residence of Lawrence Quigley, Excelsior avenue, near State Road, was damaged by fire here Saturday noon, loss being placed at several hundred dollars.

The blaze is believed to have started from an over-heated pipe running through the upper part of the structure. Smoke was first noticed by Mrs. Quigley, who with her baby was on the first floor of the property.

The second floor was completely destroyed, as well as its contents of furniture, the fire having gained headway before being discovered.

Croydon firemen were summoned, and were instrumental in saving the first floor and its furnishings. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

CHURCHES AND SCHOOLS TO GET LARGE ESTATE

Newtown Institutions to Inherit Sum if Man Dies Before His Wife

TOTAL WILL BE $33,000

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 29.—If Alfred B. Gourley, twenty-eight, son of the late Edward H. Gourley, grocer, who died at his home in Newtown on March 5, dies before his wife, Sophia S. Gourley, twenty-six, $33,000 will be distributed among the churches and schools in Newtown.

The will of the late Edward H. Gourley, leaving an estate of $20,000 and upwards, probated yesterday at the office of the Register of Wills of Bucks county, so directs.

If however, Mrs. Sophia S. Gourley should die before her husband, Alfred, then the residue of the estate which is the amount that would have gone to Newtown churches and schools, is to be paid outright to Alfred Gourley. As long as both Gourley and his wife live, Alfred Gourley receives only the income from the residue of the estate. Upon her death, however, he receives the residue outright.

After making four bequests that total $500, including $2,000 to a son, Frank E. Gourley; $500 to Lillian B. Gourley; and $1250 each to Avis Gourley and Doris Gourley, children of William M. Gourley in trust until they reach the age of twenty-one, the residue of the estate is left in trust to the son, Alfred B. Gourley with the unusual proviso.

If Alfred B. Gourley dies before his wife, the will directs that the following amounts be paid immediately:

Newtown Community Nurse, $2,000;
Newtown Fire Association, $3,000;
Newtown Friends' Boarding School, $5,000;
George School, Newtown, $5,000;
$3,000 apiece to all of Newtown's churches including the Presbyterian Church, Methodist Church, Baptist Church, St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Newtown Friends' Meeting and St. Andrews Roman Catholic Church.

ST. LOUIS OFFICIALS PREDICT AS MUCH AIR PROGRESS IN 1931 AS IN PRECEDING 12 YEARS

Survey of Industry in Vicinity of St. Louis Shows That Aviation is On the Upgrade—District Has Been Famous for Its Interest in Aeronautics Since the Beginning

(In this, the eleventh of a series of articles on aviation in America, the situation in the St. Louis region is described.)

By Robert Hereford

ST. LOUIS, Mar. 30.—The St. Louis district which backed Lindbergh in his famous trans-Atlantic flight, encouraged Dale "Red" Jackson and Forrest O'Brien in the setting of two spectacular endurance records and saw the well-known woman flyer, Laura Ingalls create two world loop and barrel-roll records, reports aviation affairs taking a decided "skyward" path.

A survey of the four major airfields, all within a twenty mile radius of St. Louis reveals that practically every department of aviation, commercial passenger flying, training of new flyers, selling of planes, exhibition flights and the construction of new buildings at the fields, is on the upgrade.

Lambert-St. Louis Flying Field for instance, which is a terminal for five commercial air-lines which operate a total of twenty-five planes in and out of the field daily, reports a 55 percent increase in the number of air passengers carried in January, 1931, over January, 1930.

Parks Airport, near East St. Louis, which operates Parks Air College, claimed to be the largest training school in the country, reveals that the revenue from student tuition in 1930 increased 20 percent over 1929. The Curtiss-Wright Airplane Company which operates Curtiss-Stenberg Airport, also in Illinois, just across the river, reports that the company has already in 1931 sold nearly a third as many planes as it did in the entire year of 1930. And from the fourth major airfield in the St. Louis district, the government owned Scott Field comes word of an ambitious construction program which will provide new barracks for the soldier flyers.

Statements from representative men in local aviation circles, all, to use a flying term reveal the aviation industry "gaining altitude steadily."

Thus Oliver L. Parks, founder of the Parks Air College says: "I believe the aviation industry and all of its kindred branches will lead all other kinds of business in recovering from the late depression. I believe it will startle the nation in 1931 and expect as much progress in the present year as in the preceding twelve years."

Colonel John A. Paegelow, commandant at Scott Field believes "every indication points to a banner year for aviation in 1931."

Oscar R. Parks, field manager at Lambert-St. Louis Flying field says: "There is no question in my mind but that aviation is quickly regaining a staple basis. No more big fluctuations are expected."

"The aviation industry in general," said H. S. Darr, manager of Curtiss-Stenberg Airport is growing steadily. More people are flying daily and reports are very encouraging."

Although the only commercial airlines to operate in St. Louis district, five in number, at the present time use the Lambert-St. Louis Flying Field for their terminal, both Parks Airport and Curtiss-Stenberg Flying Field report the expected advent of new lines at their fields soon.

BOYS, 3 AND 5, ADMIT FIRING A LARGE BARN

Tots Tell Fire Marshal Stackhouse How They Started Blaze at Feasterville

LOSS TOTALLED $6,500.00

FEASTERVILLE, Mar. 30.—Two small boys, 5 and 3½ years old, confessed to Bucks County Fire Marshal William L. Stackhouse, of Hulmeville, on Saturday, that they started the fire on March 25th that destroyed the barn on the farm of David Amrad, on the Bridgetown-Somerton Pike, with a loss of $6,500.

The tots are in a group of six "society" boys, being cared for by Mrs. Bertha Nestler, in the house on the Amrad property.

In admitting the deed, Saturday, the two youngsters told Marshal Stackhouse how they went to the house, secured matches from a tin box, then proceeded to the barn where they started a fire. The two left the structure before the blaze gained much headway, but soon the barn was a mass of flames. The fire spread across a field, endangering two other barns, and outbuildings and the house.

Fire companies from Treves, Southampton, Richboro and Somerton responded to the call, and by pumping water from a swimming pool 3,000 feet from the blaze were able to save the other buildings.

The barn which was destroyed had not been used for some time.

The tots will not be detained by the authorities.

MAN, DESPONDENT, ENDS LIFE AFTER WIFE GOES INSANE

Edwin I. Livezey, Hangs Self From Attic Stairs Railing At His Home

NEIGHBOR FINDS BODY

Wife Was Taken to Institution About One Week Ago

LANGHORNE, Mar. 30.—The lifeless body of Edwin I. Livezey, 65, was found hanging by a rope from the railing of the attic steps of his home, 313 North Bellevue avenue, here Saturday. In a note, found near the body, the suicide had stated that he could "not stand it any longer."

Livezey, a retired man, is believed to have worried much over the fact that his wife, Bertha, was taken to an institution for the insane a week ago. The body was found by Irvin Bazzie, a next-door neighbor, who with Mrs. Bazzie became alarmed at not seeing or hearing Mr. Livezey about the place since the morning previous.

At one o'clock Saturday afternoon Bazzie gained entrance to the Livezey home, and after calling and receiving no response he made his way through the several rooms. Reaching the attic steps he made the gruesome discovery. It is believed that death had occurred about 24 hours previous.

Near the body was a note and a sealed letter, the latter being addressed to Mr. Livezey's attorney, Mr. Stuckert. The note read as follows: "John N. Wall:

"You will find box with my papers on the desk, also all of Aunt Bert's. I can not stand it any longer. Look after the bird and fish. There is two chickens in the chicken house. Please deliver the letter to Mr. Stuckert, and turn my body over to Stacy Brown."

"UNCLE ED."

Wall is a nephew of the deceased man. He was summoned to the Livezey home, as were also Bucks County Coroner, Dr. John J. Sweeney, of Doylestown; Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo; and members of the State Police barracks at Morrisville.

The late Mr. Livezey had lived in the house by himself since the illness of his wife. He is also survived by one sister who resides in Richmond, Virginia.

SALARY EARNER'S CAPITAL

Every now and then clubs, associations, individuals, newspapers and politicians renew the agitation for a further reduction in the Federal income tax on earned as compared with other classes of income. And until the crash came to place the Government in serious financial straits the executive and legislative branches were not inattentive to these pleas.

It is contended that incomes from capital can bear heavy taxes because the capital itself remains intact. But the doctor's skill, the lawyer's intellect, the author's inspiration and the salaried business executive's energy are not fixed, indestructible and capable of producing annual income forever. Capital is permitted to replenish its loss and set up a suchion against taxation by means of depreciation, obsolescence and depletion. But the human vitality, health and strength lost in earning salary and fees cannot be deducted in any way. Indeed, income so earned is often the sole capital to the extent that it is margin above expenses.

There is real injustice here, but as a practical, technical matter it is extremely difficult to remedy. For one thing, it is difficult to draw a line in the collection of income taxes between those who actually suffer and those who will never miss the money. The problem does not concern that large number who pay no income taxes nor those whose incomes are more than they will ever be able to spend. But between these two there are men and women who see in this tax a deduction from the savings upon which they must depend in old age or sickness.

ISSUES AND "SCARES"

Dogs spend half the night barking at imaginary dangers. Yet when morning comes they, greatly to the disappointment of the neighbors, have not been harmed; no danger has threatened them. Men act that way through the day; they are always barking at some imaginary thing.

"Perils" and "menaces" are usually imaginary, or so remote as to amount to the same thing. A few that come in this category are the "yellow peril," the "Red menace," the "black peril," the overpopulation bugaboo, the threat of a German invasion of the United States had Germany won the World war before our entry, the collapse of the industrial system, the failure of capitalism, the "decline and fall of the United States," the prospects of a gynarchy, overthrow of the republic by a dictatorship.

Politicians are constantly manufacturing "scares," "perils," "threats," "menaces," and "causes," that do not exist. They are their bait for credulous voters.

It has been said that the American people do not "bite" on fallacious issues as easily as they did in the days of Roosevelt and Bryan and Jackson. There may be some truth in this, and yet the country is keeping a goodly company of demagogues in office in the year 1931 and the prospects are that they will find many listeners in 1932.

There's no balm in Gilead. People spend half their lives getting smart and the other half envying the happiness of the simple.

Are Modern Women Drifting Away from Real Home Life?

—and Will They Keep Their New Freedom?

What in the World Is Happening to Them? Asks Winifred Black Discussing This Trend Toward the Luxuries of Life

By WINIFRED BLACK

BIRTH control—is it the sensible, practical, humane, civilized thing the people who advocate it so earnestly declare?

Or is it a dangerous, selfish, short sighted, idea that will lead in the last analysis to race suicide?

Shall married women work outside their homes?

Even married women who have children by a former marriage to educate, on a feeble mother to support, or a young brother to help through college?

Is it possible to raise a family and give the children decent comfort and ordinary advantages on less than forty dollars a week?

You can't pick up a newspaper without seeing something about one or all these subjects, on either the front page or as near to the front page as the "live news" will allow.

What in the world is happening to women?

These questions all are intimately concerned with women.

Men are only indirectly concerned in them.

Did you ever see a good, respectable hen starting out to take what she thought was a brood of chickens for a walk, and have the chickens suddenly turn into ducks and plunge into the pond?

Have you listened with mingled amusement and pity to the wild squawks of the terrified, little old-fashioned hen, who up to that time had never realized that she had been sitting on duck eggs?

Well, I never hear a group of old-fashioned women talking about birth control, the expense of raising a family and the rights and wrongs of the married women's working question without thinking of the poor, puzzled hen who thinks her brood is trying to commit suicide, when all they want is a swim.

Are these young women of ours looking for suicide or are they just going for a swim?

Half the middle-aged women in America have borne and brought up families of four or five children and they've done it on a good deal less than forty dollars a week.

And they never felt poverty stricken or abused about it either. They didn't play much bridge or go to many parties.

They didn't belong to country clubs.

They didn't have an automobile, a radio, a phonograph, an iceless refrigerator or an electric sewing machine in the house.

When they did invite a few friends to dinner, they took pride in getting that dinner themselves.

On Saturday evenings when the girls had company, Mother baked a cake and made sandwiches and served coffee, plenty of it, good and strong, and lots of cream. And the boys and girls danced, and played games. Sunday nights they gathered around the piano and sang "Shall We Gather at the River," or "The Sweet Bye and Bye," or "Seeing Nellie Home," and thought they were having a wonderful time.

And so they were—

For they were young and they were most of them in love—and what more do you need?

Oh, yes, we've left those times behind us—forever.

We don't want any more "drudgery," any more economy, any more "fussing over trifles." And I suppose we're right.

And these swimming, quacking, chickens of ours who have turned all of a sudden into ducks—they are right, too.

But, sometimes, it makes you wonder whether the luxuries of life are really more important than the necessities.

Women—women—women—they've escaped, at last!

The doors are slamming open, the windows are wide—they're out. Are they ever going to be shut up in the house again?

And if they are—I wonder.

St. Louis Officials Predict Much Air Progress in 1931

that a 90-minute service to Kansas City would be inaugurated from there the latter part of April. Four planes will enter and leave the airport daily, it was estimated. Officials of that airport are also figuring on a 6 hour service from St. Louis to New York for a $36 fare, it was stated.

Curtiss-Stenberg officials declared they expect to have an airline operating at their field in the near future.

At the Lambert-St. Louis Flying Field a long low terminal of the flat aviation type of architecture serves as headquarters for the passengers of the five air lines which use that field for landing purposes. The Lambert-St. Louis field, which is municipally operated but which harbors a number of private concessions also boasts of having a National Guard Air Squadron and a Naval Reserve unit at the field. Officials of the field believe it is the only field in the country to have two such units.

The five air-lines which operate twenty-five planes in and out of the field daily are: (1) Universal Air Lines; (2) Trans-Continental Air Transport, Inc.; (3) Western Air Lines; (4) Interstate; and (5) Airplane Service Company.

Oscar R. Parks, the field manager gave the following figures to show how passenger flying on the commercial lines has increased. "In January of 1930, five hundred and ninety-eight passengers were registered at this field," Parks said. "In January, 1931, 926, or an increase of 328 or 55 per cent, registered."

Lambert-St. Louis Flying Field is of course amply fitted out for night landing and is applying for an A-1-A rating from the Department of Commerce.

Some figures which show the boom in aviation activities were also gathered at Parks airport.

This field which is privately owned is equipped with a pretentious terminal containing its own restaurant, and is now engaged in building on the present terminal. As in the case of Lambert-St. Louis field it has bus service to St. Louis.

Here are some of the figures given by Parks Airport officials to show the gain in interest in aviation.

In the matter of individual flights—these were explained as consisting of flights where the take-off and landing were consummated at the field there was a gain of 25 per cent in 1930 over 1929. In 1929, 72,149 such flights were recorded while in 1930 there were 90,175. There were 11,000 passenger aerial trips, consisting of exhibition flights over the city in 1929. In 1930 there were 18,375 registering a gain of 67 per cent. There was a gain of 21 per cent in the matter of aerial miles flown by planes at the airport in 1930 over 1929. The figure for aerial miles in the former year were 897,050 as compared with 740,065 for the latter.

Officials of Parks Airport at which is located the large Parks Air College have a comment to make an safety in aviation with the statement that in 1930 there was no crash or accident.

The field is equipped for night landing and teaches night landing to students.

The Curtiss-Stenberg Airport, the newest airport to be started here and which was established last summer is privately owned. It is owned by the Curtiss-Airplane Corporation and is operated by the Curtiss-Wright flying service. It has a completely equipped passenger station with a restaurant.

At Scott Field, the Government post, Colonel Paegelow explained that the war time structures are being torn down and these will be replaced by permanent buildings. Colonel Paegelow said that on March 3rd bids will be accepted for the building of soldiers barracks and on March 10 the bids for barracks for non-commissioned officers will be received. Scott Field is equipped for night landing, but is government owned, and the landing of private planes there is not encouraged.

Passover, Emancipation
Feast, to Be Observed

On Wednesday evening, April 1st, 1931, the Jewish people all over the world will begin its celebration of the Feast of Emancipation, known in Hebrew as "Pesach." According to the Bible, says a statement issued by the Tract Commission of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations and the Central Conference of American Rabbis, this holiday is celebrated for a period of seven days, and it is observed by eating unleavened bread—Matzo. This holiday looms among the most significant festivals of the Jewish calendar, for the idea of freedom upon which it is based constitutes a basic concept of Jewish thought and a basic cause for which humanity has been fighting throughout its history.

Like its sister festivals, Shabbath and Sukkoth, Passover has a twofold background. Its earliest origin may be traced back to the time when the Jewish people tilled the soil of Palestine. To them the return of spring was a most important event. It ushered in the time of reaping the barley harvest, the first fruits of which the people would bring to the Temple at Jerusalem and offer to God amidst great rejoicing. Thus, originally, Passover was a nature festival which marked the beginning of the season of spring.

Why Commute?

Why travel back and forth to your employment, which is here in Bristol, when such desirable dwellings are to be obtained here at such reasonable rents? It will pay any individual to investigate!

Work Where You Live and Live Where You Work.

If you are employed in Bristol you should live here. It will be less expensive and there are numerous other advantages derived from making your home in the town where you are employed.

You will save many hours a year which are now spent in traveling and you will have more time with your family.

The saving in money will also be considerable. Add to that which you are now paying for rent the amount which you spend in traveling back and forth to your employment here. You'll be surprised at the total. Rent a house here at a moderate rental and bank the difference.

Houses.

Comfortable dwellings, well situated and at moderate rents are to be found in that portion of Bristol which is immediately adjacent to the P. R. R. passenger station.

These houses make ideal homes and consist of six rooms with bath.

Conveniences.

They are heated by hot-air furnaces with a direct pipe leading to every room. They are lighted with electricity and are equipped with sewer, municipal water and gas.

Each room is well lighted and yet the space devoted to windows is not excessive.

Front porches are another attractive feature as is also a small rear yard where children can play in safety away from the perils of traffic.

Houses such as these would rent for considerably more in any city, where the conveniences would not surpass those offered here.

CINCINNATI'S OUTFIELD IS FLY IN OINTMENT

(This is the fifteenth in a series of 16 stories covering 1931 prospects of National and American baseball league teams.)

By E. G. Nathan

(I. N. S. Special Correspondent)
TAMPA, Mar. 30.—Most anything but a path of velvet will confront the Cincinnati Reds when they launch their 1931 campaign in the National League.

Manager Dan Howley is fairly satisfied with his infield, pitching and hurling staffs. It's the outfield that's a fly in the ointment for Dan. He signed six gardeners with the idea of keeping five, but a serious blow was struck when Harry Heilmann, slugging right fielder, was taken down with arthritis. In his quest for a young team, Howley handed Curt Walker walking papers.

Now it appears Wally Roettger, acquired from the Giants, is the only certainty for the outer pastures. Left field is open for Estel Crabtree, Ray Fitzgerald, or Gene Moore. Howley figured to use Nick Cullip in right, but Nick to date has not lived up to his reputation as a slugger.

Bright spots in the Red camp here have been the stick work of Frank Sigafos, recruit infielder and the return of the veteran Horace Ford to the fold. Ford will be in utility roles this season and is a good man to have around.

With Mickey Heath, former Pacific Coast star at first, Tony Cucinello at second, Durocher a great fielder at short and Joe Stripp on third, the infield appears intact. Lena Styles and Bob Ashbjornson are second string catchers with Clyde Sukeforth slated for regular duty.

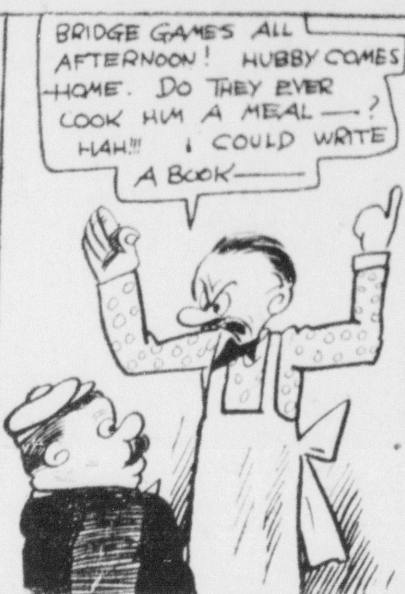

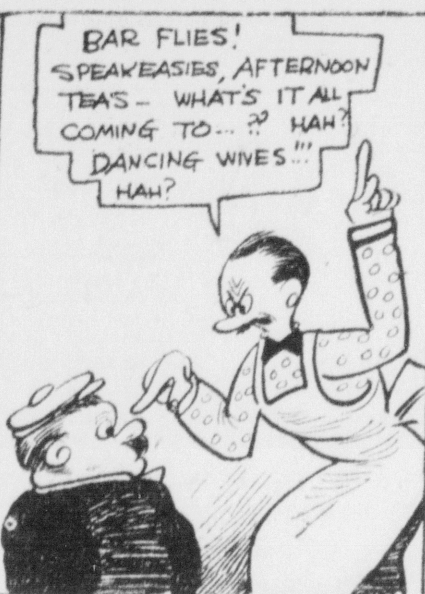

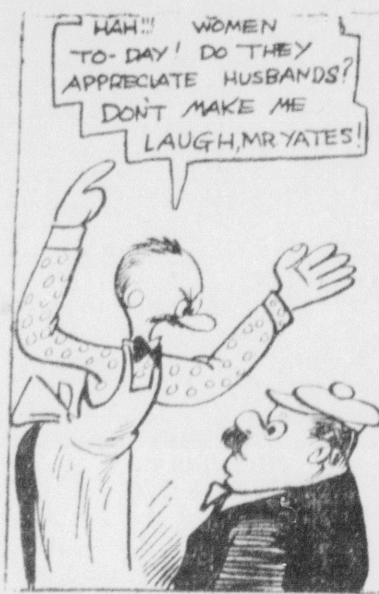

On the hurling staff Howley has Larry Benton, Archie Campbell, Red Lucas, Owen Carroll, Bennie Frev, St. Johnson, Harlan Wyssong, John Ogden and Ed Strelecki.

Giants in the Making

By HARDIN BURNLEY

SOME experts hazard the opinion that the New York Giants acquired a Dazzy Vance in the powerful form of Le Roy "Buddy" Parmalee who used to hunt rabbits with rocks in his barefoot days back in Lambertville, Mich. "Bud" has blistering speed and the essential hop on his fast one but, as is usual with such talent, his control is uncertain. He's been toiling for weeks to remedy that fault under the special tutelage of that past master of the pitching art, "Chief" Bender. And the latter sincerely believes that Parmalee will burn up the league same day because, as the "Chief" remarks, "the boy has everything save sufficient control."

Parmalee is 23 years old, weighs 195 pounds when in perfect condition, looms upward about 6 feet, and has Carnera-like claws that clutch the ball as though it were a die.

When put under the supervision of Bender, Parmalee was so wild that he had difficulty in getting most of his pitches near his catcher let alone the home plate. But the old "Chief" is a real medicine man and, while Parmalee is still a wild "un, his control is improving under the patient and expert instruction of the old master.

Though Parmalee appears to be a gem of a rookie, the Giants had an even brighter prospect in Johnny Vergez, who was scheduled to take over Freddie Lindstrom's place at third base. This 22-year-old product of the Pacific Coast League did not perform well at bat during the training season, and so Lindstrom's debut as a regular outfielder may have to be postponed.

Vergez comes to the Giants from Oakland via Alameda High School, San Antonio and Ogden. He was a hard hitter and he may soon acquire the knack of hitting major league pitching.

John McGraw is seldom impatient with carefully scouted rookies. And so Vergez may make third after a little more seasoning with the willow. Meanwhile, at this writing, "Lindy" is flitting about the outfield in a most satisfactory manner.

GENUINE SERVICE

For the next fortnight or so most people will be thinking of getting new Easter outfits.

Women will be reading the advertisements in the papers, deciding where they shall get their new coats, dresses, hats and duds for the children.

People in our territory will naturally come to Bristol.

Many will come in their own cars, but the majority will come in the trolleys and buses.

Perhaps some will go to Philadelphia, and to Trenton.

Wherever you may wish to do your Easter trading, you will find the trolleys and the buses RELIABLE.

They will carry you and your families safely, comfortably, conveniently and cheaply.

You will find them much more convenient than your own car—you know how hard it is to find a place to park.

The buses and trolleys render GENUINE SERVICE. They are on duty more than eighteen hours out of every twenty-four. They do not kick at the weather—they do not complain about the earliness or the lateness of the hour—they are at your service.
